st francis and cultural memory explores central aspects of english national spiritual and broader cultural identity through a detailed yet accessible analysis of a familiar figure the franciscan friar covering more than four hundred years from the late fourteenth to the late eighteenth centuries and

taking in a wide variety of different literary and artistic forms the book charts the changing face of the franciscan friar in the english literary imagination and examines how developments within this evolving tradition were both shaped by and have helped to shape wider debates within english culture about the relationship between religious and national identity and the past and the present central to this analysis is the notion of cultural memory at the time of its suppression in the 1530s the franciscan order was too deeply assimilated into the social fabric of england either to be forgotten or to be credibly labelled an entirely alien presence despite the best efforts of protestant polemicists to do so rather the effect of the reformation was to suppress but not completely to erase memories of english franciscans the catholic history that english protestantism sought to deny was prone to return in unexpected and often distorted and disturbing forms so that in the centuries following the reformation franciscans came to haunt the imagination of english writers and artists appearing in a wide variety of literary and artistic guises these ghostly franciscans functioned as spectres of a national past which english protestantism tried to disavow but which it was unable entirely to destroy franciscan friars appear in the work of some of the most popular and influential writers and artists from the fourteenth to the eighteenth centuries reflecting the centrality of the order to ongoing debates within english culture about religion and national identity the book discusses in detail the work of geoffrey chaucer thomas malory thomas more william shakespeare william hogarth edward gibbon ann radcliffe and matthew lewis it explores the individual responses of these writers and artists to the franciscans and their legacy and also highlights the ways in which this shared interest in the order reveals hitherto unacknowledged connections between their work this volume explores the relationship of mendicant men and women to cities and their inhabitants in the mediterranean world c 1200 1500 it asks questions including what was specifically urban about the mendicant movement what does it mean to think of the mendicants as an urban phenomenon and was there anything common to mendicant experiences in the cities of the mediterranean in addressing these questions the volume expands our understanding of the mendicants by offering chapters that examine this religious movement within urban environments from the iberian peninsula north africa southern france and italy to the dalmatian coast aegean islands egypt and the levant the chapters treat a wide array of textual artistic and architectural sources to consider how mendicants navigated and negotiated the unique social dynamics of mediterranean cities in their interactions with political potentates merchants prisoners pilgrims religious and intellectual elites non christians and inhabitants of the surrounding countryside it thus offers an interdisciplinary and broad survey of mendicancy as a social religious phenomenon of the urban mediterranean demonstrating that these communities can be defined by much more than their traditionally accepted roles as beggars preachers and teachers mendicants and the urban mediterranean c 1200 1500 will be of interest to scholars and students across multiple disciplines engaged in questions about medieval mendicancy gender urban society inter religious encounters and the mediterranean joanna cannon s scholarship and teaching have helped shape the historical study of thirteenth and fourteenth century italian art this essay collection by her former students is a tribute to her work the essays collected here form a tribute to joanna cannon whose scholarship and teaching have done so much to shape the historical study of thirteenth and fourteenth century italian art her teaching lies at the heart of this book as its chapters are all written by those who gained their doctorates under her supervision the reach of her interests and expertise is also reflected in its range of subjects the book is unified by its concentration on italian art history and material culture spanning the thirteenth to the fifteenth centuries but within that scope the individual essays focus on an impressive variety of subjects across many media including panel painting wall painting architecture sculpture metalwork manuscripts and gilded glass ranging across italy from bologna to siena to assisi to florence they address key themes in the field such as artistic patronage sainthood and sanctity the visual culture of the mendicant orders devotional practice and civic religion some essays bring fresh approaches to familiar material ambrogio lorenzetti s saint nicholas panels the frescoes in siena s palazzo pubblico simone martini s holy family while others illuminate objects and images that are less well known the central panel of the santa chiara triptych in trieste and the statue of saint francis in san francesco in siena as a collection they combine to make an important contribution to the study of early italian art seeking thereby to echo the extraordinary contribution of joanna cannon s own work to that field commemorating john moorman s immense contribution to franciscan history across five decades the essays in this collection reflect upon moorman s diverse writings on biography hagiography history art and prosopography contributors draw upon moorman s diaries and his materials for a biographical register of the franciscans in medieval england the volume is in tune with recent developments in franciscan history in general with a special interest in the english province this is exemplified by studies on franciscan iconography the english province s impact of the wider order the scholastic enterprise prosopography economy sermons the application of canon law to the debates at the papal court and the evolution of john moorman s studies on st francis and his followers
